The Wars against Crusaders and the Capture of Jerusalem

- Sultan Salahuddin Ayubi, the hero of hundreds of battles, was the person who for twenty years braved the storm of the Crusades.
- Ultimately pushed back the combined forces of Europe which had come to swarm the Holy Land.
- The world has hardly witnessed a more chivalrous and humane conqueror.

- The Crusades represent the maddest and the longest war in the history of mankind.
- The storm of savage fanaticism of the Christian West burst in all its fury over western Asia.
- Christianity hurled itself against Muslims in expedition after expedition for nearly three centuries.
- Until failure brought lassitude, and superstition itself was undermined by its own labor.

- The Christian West was excited to a mad religious frenzy by Peter the Hermit, and his followers to liberate the Holy Land from the hands of the Muslims.
- During the time that a Crusader bore the Cross, he was under the protection of the Church and exempted from all taxes as well as freed to commit all sins.

Capture of Jerusalem

- In this battle alone the Crusader army was largely annihilated by the motivated army of Salahuddin.
- It was a major disaster for the Crusaders and a turning point in the history of the Crusades.
- Salahuddin captured Raynald de Châtillon and was personally responsible for his execution in retaliation for his attacking Muslim caravans.

Mannerism & Legacy of Sultan Salahuddin Ayubi

- Saladin used to perform the five obligatory prayers on time, along with the supererogatory prayers. He never prayed except in congregation, and he never delayed a prayer.
- He used to always have an imam with him, but if the imam was not present, he would pray behind any pious scholar who might be sitting with him.

- He never quit a prayer except when he slipped into a coma for three days before his death.
- Although he always wanted to perform Hajj, he was occupied in jihad.
- So he did not have enough money to perform Hajj, and he died without performing it.
- He never uttered a rude word and never used his pen to humiliate a Muslim.

Death

- Sultan Salahuddin Ayubi died at the age of 57. His estate was only 47 dirhems and one dinar. He left no real estate or any other heredity. May Allah honor him in the hereafter, lighten his grave, and raise his rank in Paradise. Amen.
